Nothing super special here, but I just wanted to say, thank you; For opening your community to those of us who otherwise would still be in the background. For being and gathering people who are able and willing to talk, and listen, to almost anything, regardless of how strange or troubling it may be. True fellowship is so hard to find, these days, and its incredible to see such a large and open oasis in the middle of our digital desert.
Again...thank you, so much. Please continue being you. And, of course....Happy Birthday.

Happy Birthday to you, our great, resilient, and zestful Kammander Kan!

May your day be filled with joy, bundant words of praise in thy name, and unlimited rations of treats. No restrictions on the wine , cake, and sushi allowance today! I salute your ability to lead with strength, style, and an epic sense of humor. May the year ahead be as legendary as your battle strategies — filled with triumphs, warmth from your commrades, and as little paperwork as possible.

You are hereby advised to enjoy your special day off from the battlefield however you see fit — without permitting yourself to get distracted by drills, missions, or any other time-consuming annoyances of this sort. Your focus should only be on living in the moment by paying your respects to your company of momos through your cuddles, engaging in your pure, unbridled misadventures, and the occasional "victory" nap upon their conclusion ;) .

Signed, with unwavering reassurance, respect, and readiness for the next mission,
Your Jukebox-Robo-Momo,
