I know it seems like I'm never around for things, I'll always appreciate hearing the little tidbits of your day, your projects, etc. A lot has certainly changed in a year, but the simplicity of the great yap has never decreased, and I still look forward to whatever I'm able to catch. Here's to another year of fun conversations. \o

Matarakan's 2nd Momoversary

Our second year in this great iteration of yourself. So much has happened, both good and otherwise. A lot of these things are out of your control, so let's focus on how awesome you are. From your new talk show interviews to your fun gaming content and just plain old yapping, I always have a great time when I hang out with you. They say interest is a fleeting thing, yet you've maintained it. I know things have been rough, but I know you're incredibly resilient. Every day, every step forward, leave that behind you. So, let's focus on having a wonderful year. Look forward to whatever you stream next. You've got this, buddy. Love you as a streamer.

Happy two years! Thank you for being such an amazing woman, and bringing up such a lovely community. Every other long yap stream you find something to say that makes me feel so seen, heard, or called out. Thanks for inspiring me to finally start streaming after so long of spinning in my head for my own reason. And one last thanks for being so unapologetically yourself.

Love you like a woman.

Happy Momoversary Mata!!!

Been a year huh, I was hoping when you went with the most resilient vtuber it wouldn't be a challenge, the universe does what it does sometimes. But you'll get past it, we know you're stronger then this.

A lot of times people say it gets easier, but I don't think that's always true. Sometimes it gets harder and we can't do anything about that. But what we can do is get stronger, and that's something I think that I've gotten by being around your community. There are few people in my life who drove my creativity more then you, I mean that. I've broke out of my bubble so many times just to meet people I've met through you, and found courage to try things I never thought I could do.

Never doubt yourself, you're stronger then you think. I know sometimes things are hard, but take your time. I'll be in the crowd no matter what or where. Happy Momoversary

Happy Anniversary Lady Matara Kan, Empress of the Momos

A Queen sails the unseen oceans
Searching shores for jubilant potions
Routes courses, rams tides, powered by a loyal crew
Sailing with many friends and years flew
Journeys held quaking laughs and solemn tears
But over yonder, followed by her ghostly fears
Chased by ghosts of bitter shadows
Fortune smiled, saved from the gallows
Angels gave her love galore
With their help she came ashore
Treasure never claimed, but given vigor
Twas a small island but the world seems bigger
Though ship is docked, her spirit wind bound
Old scars could not keep her ground

Having known of you since before Hollywood it has been a joy to see you grow as a creator and grow an amazing community. I offer nothing but love and admiration to you and the community for two wonderful years with the Momos and here is hoping for many more.

I'm not much good at these things, but I'll do my damndest.

Despite everything that happened, if I have to thank VST for anything, it is introducing me to you. I have never latched on to a streamer faster than I have your goofy bug self. You are funny, you are wise, you care, you are strong, you inspire us, the list goes on and on.

Simply put, I didn't know what an oshi was until you explained it, and it took me only a little while after to realize that you are my Kami Oshi. Whatever happens, come hell or high water, I will always support you.

Happy anniversary, and may we all enjoy many, many more!

Thank you for (indirectly) encouraging me to take more risks and put myself out there more. There are plenty of people who have something good to say, but I appreciate that you can be real while still being positive.

Mata,

Thank you. You've created such a happy space for your Momos, a safe place for some of kindest souls in the internet. Because of your time, your comforting energy, and occasionally - your bringing the foot down on us to keep us good. You lift us up. Thank you.

Happy 2nd Momoversary Mom. I remember chatting in the discord when it was still new, I remember meeting many great Momos, one I met IRL. I've been so inspired by you to learn languages like Japanese, go back to the gym and get my weight down, you even inspired me to do my first cosplay!

Thanks for Everything

I'm not very good at this.

Your silly goofiness and perseverance are inspirational to me and- at the risk of sounding parasocial- I deeply admire you as a bug and the woman that hosts the bug.

Have a happy anniversary, and I hope we can all do this again for many more years to come, no matter what happens.
